Dear Mr. Hunt

The Marquis d'Uzeglio wishes me to express to you the great pleasure he felt in reading the leading article published by last night's Globe on the correspondence between Sardinia & Austria. And it gave him and will give to us all the more pleasure that the English press, or at least a portion of it, had for some time kept a profound silence on certain remarkable facts which had taken place place in Italy or had spoken on others in a rather Austrian sense. This might have led us to believe that the feelings of sympathy which the friends of Italy were accustomed to meet with here, might have slightly subsided, which would have been a very great disappointment as we cannot help

considering this free country as the natural support of the liberal Government all over the Continent.
That all article of the Globe will have a great and very salutary influence in Italy and it will go far to suppress the doubts which may lately have risen as to sympathy of the English people for the Tardon Government.

The sympathy & encouragement is the more important that if our Government which is the representative of & supported by the moderate party in the Peninsula, had to give way, there would only remain on the field of those extreme parties.
Foreign & absolute God on one side, republican & socialist on the other.

I am myself very happy to express the feelings of gratitude and our own very faithfully
L. Corti
